

MICHELINAIR

THE NOSTALGIC SMELL
OF MICHELIN RESTAURANTS

MICHELIN AIR

Consultatns: Who are we ?

KILEY MULLEN

CLAIRE THOMAS

KATE MCINNIS

LUCY SMITH

Table of contents

INTRODUCTION OF MICHELIN AIR \04

VISION AND MISSION \05

TARGET MARKET ANALYSIS & BUYER PERSONA \06

CLUSTER BREAKDOWN \08

CONCLUSION \09

About Us

We’re a team of four college students who share a common love for traveling. Every trip we’ve taken has left us with memories we never want to lose, the unforgettable meals, the cities that shifted our perspectives, and the moments that made us feel alive. But we realized something, photos fade, souvenirs get lost, and even the most meaningful experiences start to blur with time. So we started to brainstorm to solve a problem we personally feel. How can we remember our travels in a way that feels real, emotional, and lasting? That question sparked the idea for Michelin Air.

How can we truly
remember our travels?
VERONA
Venezia

Power of Scent

SCENT BRINGS MEMORIES TO LIFE

- Scent is the strongest tigger of memory
- The olfactory system is directly connected to the brains memory and emotion centers
  - Unlike other senses, smell travels straight to:
    - The amygdala (emotion processing)
    - The hippocampus (memory formation)
    - This is why a single scent can instantly bring back a moment in full emotional detail.
- Emotional memories form through scent are long lasting
- Strongest memories arent just visual, they sensory

Nostalgic Scent

BEYOND JUST SOUVENIRS

- Travelers don’t want just a keychain or postcards, they want an experience that brings them back to their travels
- Memories are felt
- Smell can transport you back to unforgettable memories
- The aroma of baked bread can send you back to the streets of Paris as you walk by, laughing with friends, a small side street bakery that just took a fresh baked bread out of the oven.

What are we missing?

- Travelers want more than just souvenirs, they want emotional connection
- Scent is the only sense that can recreate a moment authentically
- Travel experience fades quickly, but the desire to relive it doesn't
- Travelers return home missing the atmosphere, food, emotions, excitement, and culture
- Luxury dinning is an experience to remember but isn’t always accessible for everyone
- They want a product that can truly bring them back to the moments that shaped their trip, the warmth of a Michelin dining room, the scent of fresh ingredients, the atmosphere of a world-class culinary space. No current product fulfills this emotional and sensory gap.

Introducing Michelin Air

- Michelin Air is a subscription-based sensory experience that captures the essence of Michelin-starred restaurants across Europe. Each subscriber will receive a collectible container on a customizable plan, shaped like a real Michelin restaurant, filled with air captured directly from each restaurant that recreates the true atmosphere of that space.

Vision and Mission

Michelin Air

Vision

To preserve the soul of Michelin-level dining by capturing the nostalgic scents, emotions, and sensory memories that define unforgettable culinary experiences in a sentimenal bottle.

Mission

TO BOTTLE THE MAGIC OF GLOBAL DINING EXPERIENCES, ALLOWING EVERY TRAVELER TO CARRY HOME THE WARMTH, NOSTALGIA, AND UNIQUENESS OF MICHELIN-STAR KITCHENS THROUGH SCENT AND STORYTELLING.

SWOT

STRENGTHS

- Low production cost
- natural scent over artificial scent
- Innovative concept, no other brand currently offers a air captured memory subscription centered on Michelin-starred restaurants
- Collectible, souvenir-like with a purpose
- emotional appeal- based on science of scent and memory, taps into nostalgia, travel memories, and emotional connection

WEAKNESSES

- Niche audience, not a mass market
- Dependent on a steady partnership with Michelin to produce this product
- maintaining the air and creating a capsule to hold the scents of each restaurant would require a lot of research

OPPORTUNITIES

- partnership expansion: partnering with Michelin could open a lot of doors to other collaborations with hotels and other travel experience
- Gift market: perfect gift for those that travel frequently
- Could potentially expand. globally
- Multi-sensory add ons, many opportunities to expand the product for deeper immersion

THREATS

- competition: fragrance brands- artificial scents are stronger
- Michelin could limit access, restricting opportunities

Current Consumers

HOW DO WE FIT THE NEED?

- Consumers of Michelin Air would typically include tourists that are seeking a product that can help them not only create unforgettable memories but also give them an immersive souvenir that can transport them back to those times to share with family and friends. Instead of it just being canned air to them, it's a way to capture moments that travelers want to hold on to for the rest of their lives. There are alot of passionate people that need something more than just a novelty item, they need something immersive, nostalgic, and real. Their primary needs revolve around emotional connection, memory preservation, and the desire to extend or relive special travel moments. This includes honeymooners who want a memento of their first trip together, study-abroad students preparing for a meaningful chapter abroad, adults traveling the world who want to savor the essence of their experiences, and even grandparents who want to feel part of loved ones' adventures despite mobility limitations.

Psychographic & Behavioral Motivations

WHAT DRIVES OUR CONSUMERS?

- Other canned aired products on the market only focus on humor while this product taps into a deeper psychographic. Many individuals who have a passion for travel also seek adventure and are driven by emotion enhanced experinces. Michelin Air is the perfect product to help travelers reconnect with experiences, relationships, and places that hold personal meaning. Newlyweds may want a sensory reminder of their honeymoon destination to relive the intimacy and excitement of that trip; study-abroad students may want a pre-departure gift that helps them envision their upcoming adventure; seasoned travelers may want to revisit the essence of past journeys; and grandparents may desire a way to feel close experinces again and share memories with loved loves

Competition

aera

CURRENT COMPETITORS

Direct Competitors

1) other novelty canned air sellers (ex: “air from Hawaii”
   - audience: tourists
   - position: joke/novelty
2) Vitality Air (rocky mountain canned oxygen)
   - audience: health consious people
   - position: people that want premium oxygen air, not travel related

Indirect Competitors

3) Pura: Luxury home fragrance diffuser brand
   - audience: household owners
   - position: “scent as a memory ”but not related to travel
4) Aera: luxury home fragrance diffuser brand
   - audience: household owners
   - position: “scent as a memory ”but not related to travel
5) Homesick: destination candle brand)
   - audience: people that want to capture nostalgic smells like a “morning cup of coffee”
   - position: memory attachment and gifting
6) REPLICA: fragrance that makes scents based on places
   - audience: nostalgia perfume wearers
   - position: “evoke a moment through scent”

Other Competitors

7) VR Travel Experiences
   - audience: nostolgic people
   - position: immersive way to recreate memories, not tied to fragrance

BENEFIT MATRIX

Emotional/ Immersive Memory

Not Travel Related

Travel Experience Tie

Functional/ Novelty

homesick

pura

aera

MICHELIN STAR

VITALITY AIR®
vitalityair.com

Emotional/ Immersive Memory

homesick

pura

aera

Not Travel Related

BLUE OCEAN

Travel Experience Tie

VITALITY AIR®
vitalityair.com

Functional/ Novelty

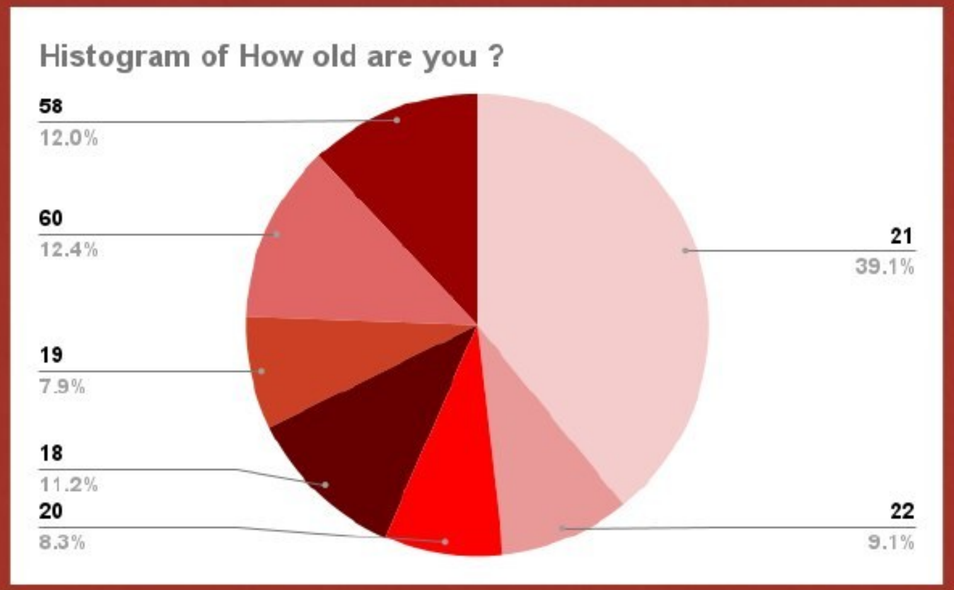

Emotional/Immersive: uses real scents to simulate nostalgic memories
Functional: canister shaped as Michelin star restaurant, makes for a perfect keepsake or gift for others
Travel Experience: free meal with subscription, allows you to experience each restaurant on your travels

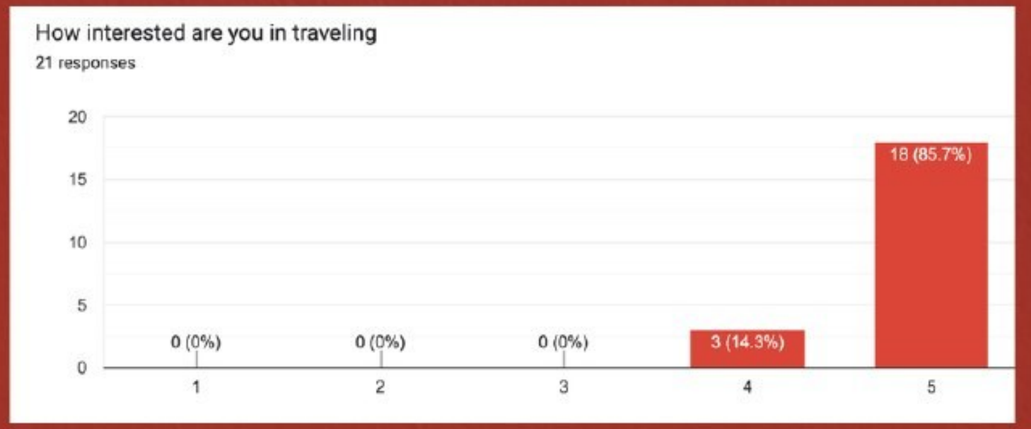

MICHELIN AIR

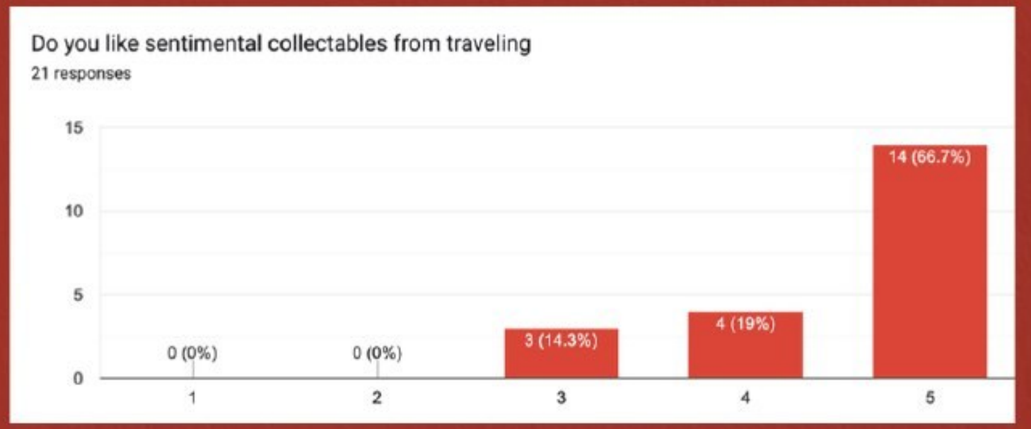

Survey Results

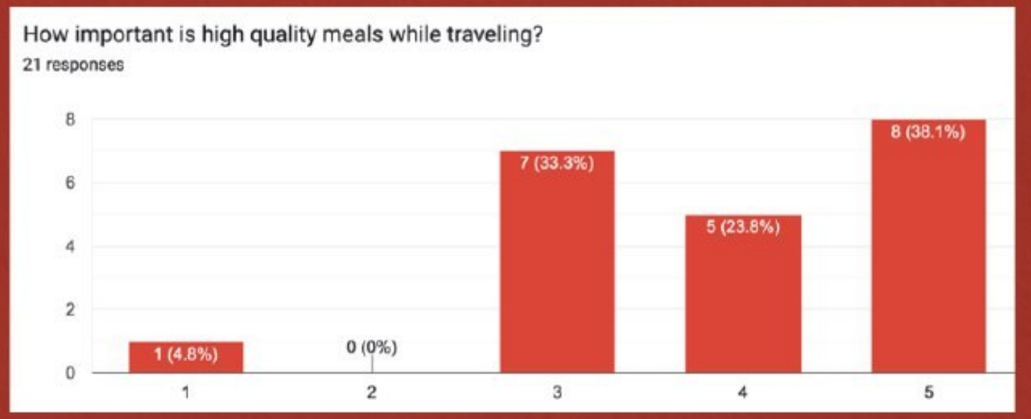

FOR THESE THREE QUESTIONS THE LINEAR SCALE WAS 1-NO
5-YES

THESE QUESTIONS PROVIDE US WITH TOOLS THAT HELPS US UNDERSTAND OUR CONSUMERS BETTER
-HIGHLIGHTS MANY PSYCHOGRAPHIC AND BEHAVIORS

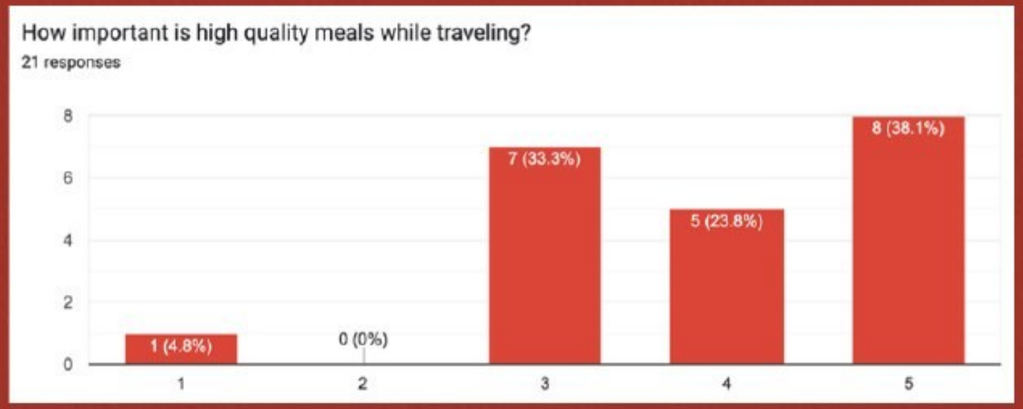

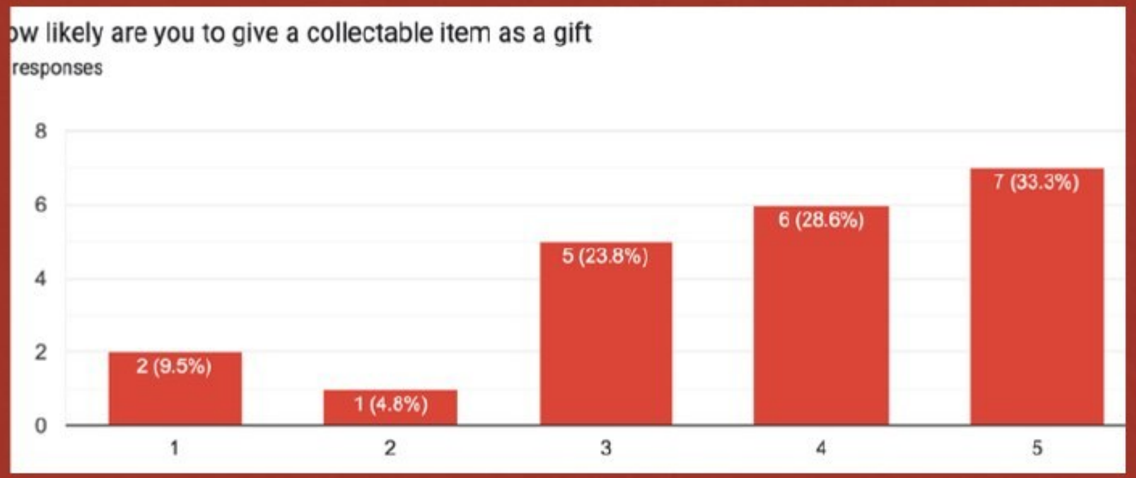

MICHELIN AIR

Survey Results

IN THIS QUESTION, THE LINEAR SCALE WAS
1-RELIABLE
5-EXCITING

SHOWS WHETHER THOSE FILLING OUT OUR SURVEY FOLLOW MORE OF A PROMOTION OR PREVENTION FOCUS

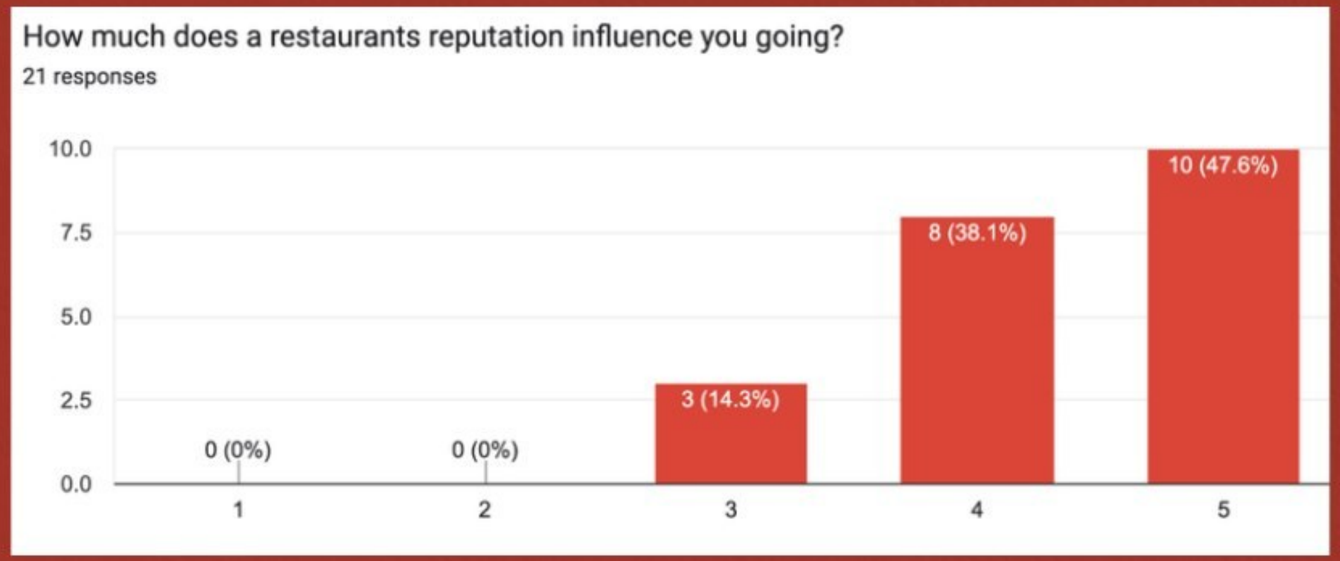

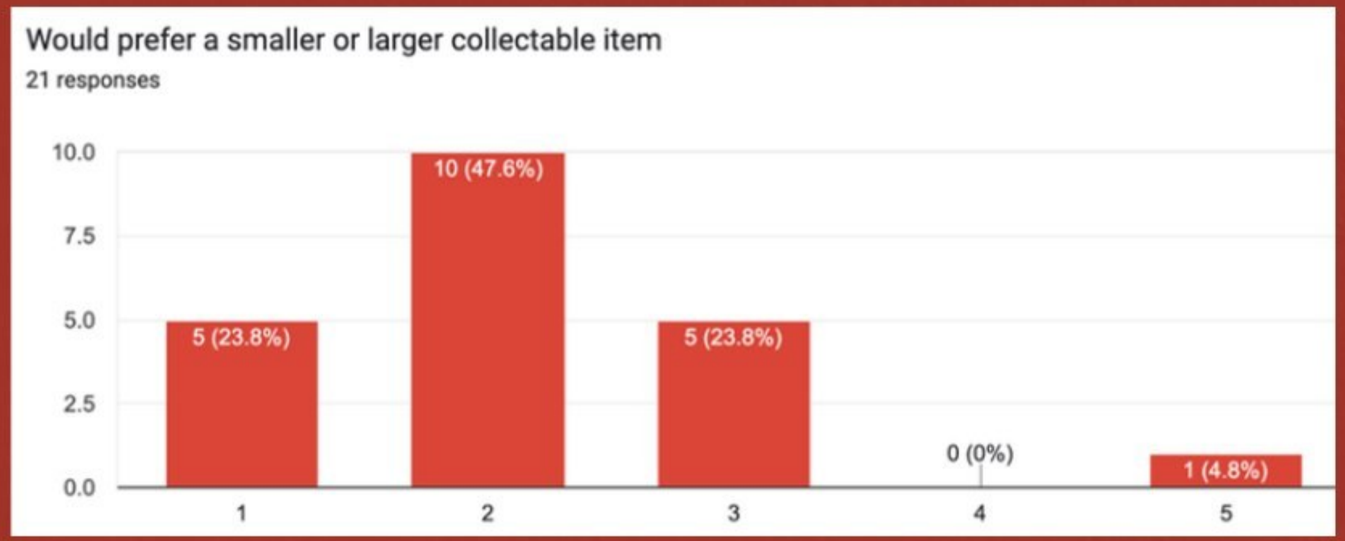

THESE QUESTIONS HELP US ANTICIPATE HOW CONSUMERS WILL INTERACT WITH OUR PRODUCT

THE LINEAR SCALE FOR THESE QUESTIONS WAS 1-NOT LIKELY
5-VERY LIKELY

THIS QUESTION'S LINEAR SCALE WAS
1-NOT AT ALL
5-VERY HEAVILY

THIS QUESTION HELPS US MEASURE THE EFFECTIVENESS OF EXTERNAL INFLUENCES ON OUR CONSUMERS.
-HELPS US UNDERSTAND THE TIE IN A RESTAURANT'S REPUTATION AS A FORM OF SOCIAL PROOF

THIS QUESTION'S LINEAR SCALE WAS 1-SMALLER
5-LARGER

THIS QUESTION HELPS US DETERMINE THE PHYSICAL CHARACTERISTICS OF OUR PRODUCT SO THAT WE CAN ACHIEVE MAXIMUM SATISFACTION.

Survey Results

What our survey tells us

From charts:

- Almost everyone is highly interested in traveling (most rated 4–5).
- Most love sentimental collectibles from travel (majority at 4–5).
- High-quality meals matter while traveling (most rated 3–5, with a big spike at 5).
- People are likely to give collectibles as gifts and very likely to redeem a free meal voucher.
- Restaurant reputation strongly influences choice (mostly 4–5).
- Many prefer a smaller collectible item (easy to display/travel with).

Psychographic summary:

- Our ideal consumer is excited about travel, cares a lot about food quality & reputation, and wants sentimental, giftable collectibles tied to their trips.

BENEFIT MATRIX

High Importance of Dining on Trip

Low Desire for Collectibles

High Desire for Collectibles

Low Importance of Dining on Trip

Best Benefit Matrix

aera

Which Benefit Matrix is Best?

The first Benefit Matrix is more Accurate:

- It uses dimensions that directly reflect what matters to consumers, based on our survey results—specifically emotional memory and travel connection.
- It clearly demonstrates the blue ocean opportunity, showing that no existing product offers an immersive, nostalgic scent experience that captures authentic Michelin restaurant air from across Europe.
- It highlights Michelin Air's unique value, combining a collectible container shaped like a Michelin restaurant, a functional keepsake or gift, and the added benefit of a subscription that allows consumers to explore these restaurants and redeem a free meal.
- The other Matrix incoporated dining into the mix in which the first one did not, but still was not specific enough to identify a blue ocean

Cluster Creation

	Newlyweds and Honeymooners	Young Adults Studying Abroad	Business Travelers	Grandparents
Psychographics	• Promotion Focused: Younger focused on new and exclusive experiences. Less concerned about risks and looks forward to benefits and opportunities. • Receptive to novelty and are entering new consumer situations • Prioritizing emotional memories associated with peak experiences.	• Preserve memories • Demonstrate cultural connection • Express identity and growth • Gain social recognition	The Archivist (Emotion-driven) • Seeks to preserve feelings, milestones, and symbolic moments. • Buys Michelin Air to hold onto the emotional essence of a special meal or trip. The Foodie (Experience-driven) • Globally curious, Michelin-focused, food-obsessed traveler. • Buys Michelin Air as a tangible artifact in their culinary journey. The Storyteller (design-driven) • Prefers subtle, meaningful, compact objects with rich stories. • Buys Michelin Air for its elegant simplicity and narrative depth.	The Cultural Connoisseur • Sophisticated traveler, loves Michelin dining & artisan collectibles. • Buys Michelin Air as a refined cultural artifact from world travels. The Generous Gifter • Emotionally generous, prioritizes family gifting and sentimental gestures. • Buys Michelin Air to give children/grandchildren a heartfelt, story filled object and experience.
Usage	• Likely to purchase premium products and are relatively price-insensitive for special occasion products. • Uniqueness • Status Signaling • Memory Preservation • Luxury • Opt for Customizable packages so experience is unique to them.	• Having a sentimental souvenir from a travel experience • Having the sense “sent” triggering a meaningful dining experience abroad • The souvenir can be used as decor or a gift for family/friends • Enjoying the free meal that comes along with the subscription!	• Needs: Emotional preservation of travel moments with meaningful or giftable keepsakes • Benefits: Authenticity, prestige, sensory-memory capture • Frequency: 4–12 business trips/year; many visit Michelin restaurants each trip • Use Cases: Desk display, collectible series, gifting to partners or colleagues • Occasions: Client dinners, deal closings, promotions, milestone business travel	• Needs: Meaningful gifts, sentimental keepsakes, legacy items, premium travel enhancements • Benefits Desired: Emotional storytelling, authenticity, premium taste, easy-to-carry souvenirs • Frequency: 2–6 luxury trips/year; many visit Michelin restaurants on milestone trips • Use Cases: Gift to kids/grandkids, personal travel mementos, display items, collectors’ items • Occasions: Retirement trips, anniversaries, birthdays, grandkids’ milestones, bucket-list dining
Geography	• Couples are typically based in urban and suburban America • Frequent global travellers	• Established in America but traveling abroad • Traveling somewhere in Europe	• Core hubs: NYC, London, Paris, Singapore, Hong Kong, Tokyo • Secondary: Dubai, Shanghai, Sydney, São Paulo • Travel regularly to global culinary capitals with a Michelin presence	• Home Bases: U.S. (FL, CA, AZ, Northeast), UK, France, Switzerland, Japan, Singapore • Travel Destinations: Paris, Tokyo, Rome, Kyoto, Barcelona, Mediterranean cruises
Demographics	• Young Adults (25-40 years) • Income Level: Middle to upper-level class • Newly Married or Engaged • Education: Typically college graduate	• Young adults studying abroad who come from America • All genders • Unmarried • Healthy and able to travel • Middle to low class income	• Ages: 25–60 (early professionals to executives) • Income: $100K–350K+, frequent premium travelers • Education: College & graduate degree professionals • Family Status: Singles seeking identity, partnered travelers looking for meaningful gifts, parents wanting culturally rich souvenirs • Lifestyle: Health-conscious, global travelers, food-aware	• Age: 55–75+ (pre-retirees, retirees, grandparents) • Income: $120K–300K+; strong discretionary spending • Lifestyle: Experience focused, health conscious, culturally curious • Family Status: Empty nesters, active grandparents, retired couples

Cluster 1: Newlyweds and Honeymooners

DEMOGRAPHICS

- Young Adults (25-40 years)
- Income Level: Middle to upper-level class
- Newly Married or Engaged
- Education: Typically college graduate

GEOGRPAHY

- Couples are typically based in urban and suburban America
- Frequent global travellers

USAGE

- Likely to purchase premium products and are relatively price-insensitive for special occasion products.
- Uniqueness
- Status Signaling
- Memory Preservation
- Luxury
- Opt for Customizable packages so experience is unique to them.

PSYCHOGRAPHICS

- Promotion Focused: Younger focused on new and exclusive experiences. Less concerned about risks and looks forward to benefits and opportunities.
- Receptive to novelty and are entering new consumer situations
- Prioritizing emotional memories associated with peak experiences.

Cluster 1: Newlyweds and Honeymooners

PRO'S

- High willingness to spend on premium, once in a lifetime experiences. Emotionally primed with a strong desire to preserve meaningful moments.
- Perfect product fit with romantic Michelin dining.
- Strong social-sharing potential (Instagram worthy, story driven).
- Built-in gifting for partners.
- Opportunity for repeat purchases on anniversaries and future trips.

CON'S

- Seasonal demand tied to wedding/honeymoon cycles.
- Varied price sensitivity among couples.
- Competes with many emotional/commemorative purchases on honeymoons.
- Limited geographic fit (depends on access to Michelin restaurants).
- Couples must agree, which can slow or reduce purchase decisions.

Cluster 1: Newlyweds and Honeymooners

MARKETING STRATEGY

- Regulatory Focus
  - Promotion-Focused: Through our survey we conducted we found most people fell in to the promotion-focused focused, so we want our marketing to highlight benefits in our marketing apraoch.
  - Regulatory Fit creates higher willingness to purchase
- Emotional Appeal
  - Maximize our Emotional Intrest
  - Creating positive emotional associations
- Reciprocity
  - Through using our Free Meal Vouchers, we use the “favor first” method. By providing the first free meal, newlyweds are more likely to repay the brand through word of mouth, brand loyalty, or future purchases.

MICHELIN AIR

Cluster 1: Newlyweds and Honeymooners

BUYER PERSONA

- PRESON & PAYTON
- ETHAN IS 30, AND CLARA IS 29 YEARS OLD
- THEY RECENTLY GOT MARRIED AFTER FOCUSING ON THEIR CAREERS
- THEY ARE BOTH COLLEGE-EDUCATED
- THEY BOTH HOLD PROFESSIONAL JOBS AND HAVE MIDDLE-CLASS INCOMES
- EXCITED TO BUILD A LIFE TOGETHER: SETTING UP THEIR FIRST APARTMENT TOGETHER, GROWING IN THEIR RELATIONSHIP, AND TRAVELING TOGETHER TO CREATE MEMORIES
- THEY WANT PURCHASES TO BE HIGHLY SIGNALLING PRODUCTS THAT CONVEY THEIR NEW MARITAL STATUS
- THEY WANT THEIR DECOR AND SOUVENIRS TO COME OFF AS SOPHISTICATED

Cluster 2: Young Adults Studying Abroad

DEMOGRAPHICS

- Young adults studying abroad coming from America
- All genders
- Unmarried
- Healthy and able to travel
- Middle to low class income

GEOGRPAHY

- Established in America but traveling abroad
- Traveling somewhere in Europe

USAGE

- Having a sentimental souvenir from a travel experience
- Having the sense “sent” triggering a meaningful dining experience abroad
- The souvenir can be used as decor or a gift for family/friends
- Enjoying the free meal that comes along with the subscription!

PSYCHOGRAPHICS

- Preserve memories
- Demonstrate cultural connection
- Express identity and growth
- Gain social recognition

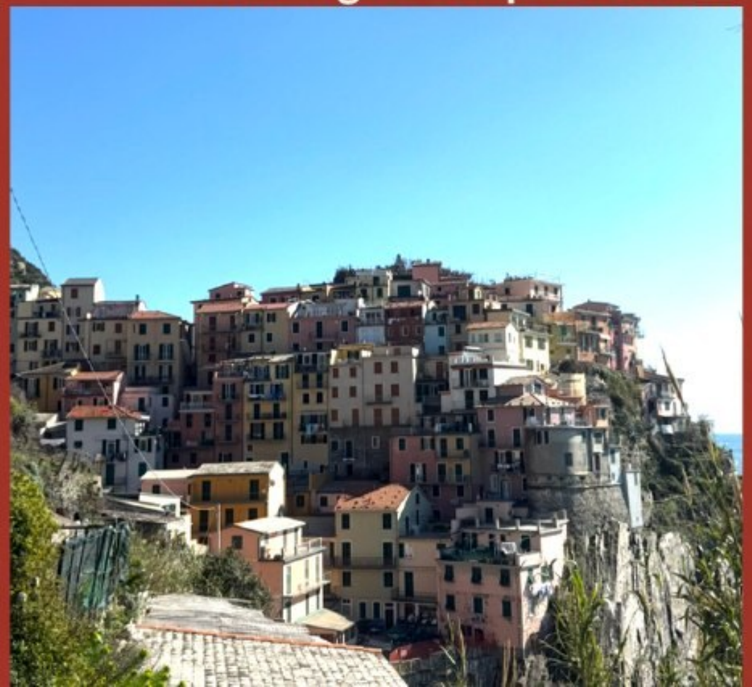

MICHELIN AIR

Cluster 2: Young Adults Studying Abroad

PRO'S

1. Get a physical souiver with a trigger a positive traveling experience
2. Having the opportunity to try new resturnats while traveling and experience new quisine

CON'S

1. The consumer will not want to spend the money in investing in these sentimental souviners
2. The consumer will not be interest in travel / the restruant highlighted under the Michelin Guide

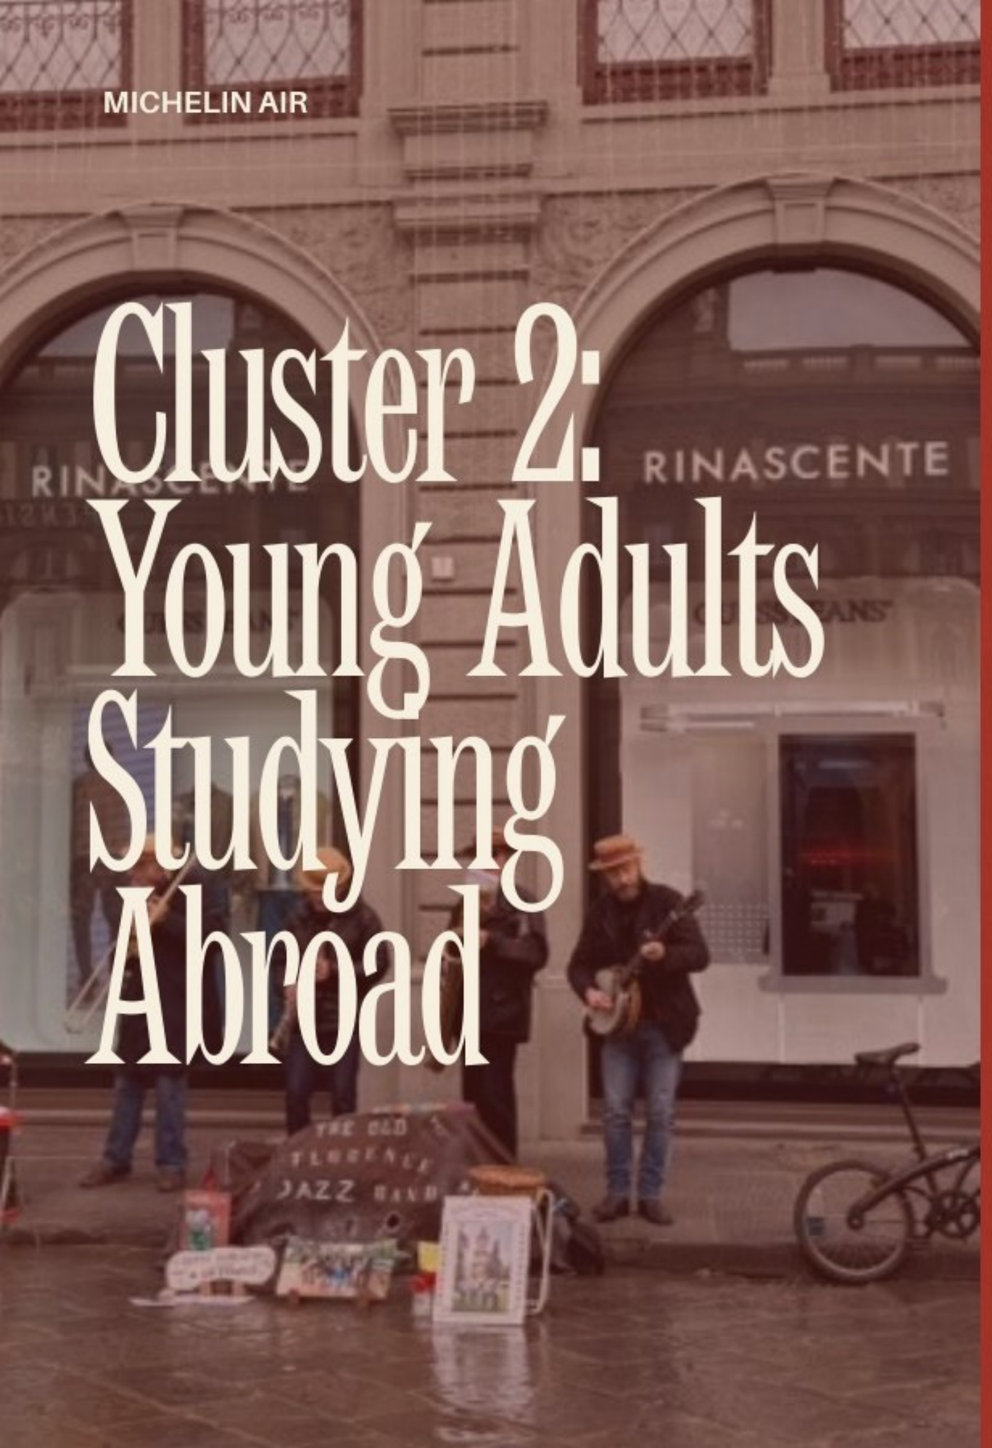

MICHELIN AIR

Cluster 2: Young Adults Studying Abroad

BUYER PERSONA

- Sophia
- Age: 20-22
- Female
- American student studying in Italy
- Values : Experiences, Cultural immersion, Authenticity
- Personality: Curious, adventurious, social, foodie at heart
- Lifestyle: loves planning trips around food, avid journaler, and weekday student
- Motivators: Creating memories, living in the moment, feeling like a local
- Pain Points: Too many choices —— overwhelmed by restaurant selections abroad, wants authentic but safe dining, difficulty remembering and documenting every place they love
- Travel Habbits: Weekending around Europe

Cluster 2: Young Adults Studying Abroad

MARKETING CONCEPT

Emotional Appeal

- Appeal the brand to their obsession with nostalgia
- Scent-driven brand ties directly to sensory memory
- Combines food, travel, emotion, and design

Promotion Concept

- Perfect for journalers, Pinterest lovers, scent collectors
- Aligns with their love of aesthetic souvenirs
- Makes her feel like they can “take their favorite restaurant home with them”

Place / Distribution Concept

- Memorable and interactive
- Limited-edition scents per city
- Remember the place forever

High Construal Level

- Aesthetic vibe
- Focus on nostolgia
- Values meaning, memories, and identity

Cluster 3: Business Travelers

DEMOGRAPHICS

Ages: 25–60 (early professionals to executives)

Income: $100K–350K+, frequent premium travelers

Education: College & graduate degree professionals

Family Status: Singles seeking identity, partnered travelers looking for meaningful gifts, parents wanting culturally rich souvenirs

Lifestyle: Health-conscious, global travelers, food-aware

GEOGRPAHY

Core hubs: NYC, London, Paris, Singapore, Hong Kong, Tokyo

Secondary: Dubai, Shanghai, Sydney, São Paulo

Travel regularly to global culinary capitals with Michelin presence

USAGE

Needs: Emotional preservation of travel moments with meaningful or giftable keepsakes

Benefits: Authenticity, prestige, sensory-memory capture

Frequency: 4–12 business trips/year; many visit Michelin restaurants each trip

Use Cases: Desk display, collectible series, gifting to partners or colleagues

Occasions: Client dinners, deal closings, promotions, milestone business travel

PSYCHOGRAPHICS

The Archivist (Emotion-driven)

- Seeks to preserve feelings, milestones, and symbolic moments.
- Buys Michelin Air to hold onto the emotional essence of a special meal or trip.

The Foodie (Experience-driven)

- Globally curious, Michelin-focused, food-obsessed traveler.
- Buys Michelin Air as a tangible artifact in their culinary journey.

The Storyteller (design-driven)

- Prefers subtle, meaningful, compact objects with rich stories.
- Buys Michelin Air for its elegant simplicity and narrative depth.

Cluster 4: Grandparents

DEMOGRAPHICS

Age: 55–75+ (pre-retirees, retirees, grandparents)

Income: $120K–300K+; strong discretionary spending

Lifestyle: Experience focused, health conscious, culturally curious

Family Status: Empty nesters, active grandparents, retired couples

GEOGRPAHY

Home Bases: U.S. (FL, CA, AZ, Northeast), UK, France, Switzerland, Japan, Singapore

Travel Destinations: Paris, Tokyo, Rome, Kyoto, Barcelona, Mediterranean cruises

USAGE

Needs: Meaningful gifts, sentimental keepsakes, legacy items, premium travel enhancements

Benefits Desired: Emotional storytelling, authenticity, premium taste, easy-to-carry souvenirs

Frequency: 2–6 luxury trips/year; many visit Michelin restaurants on milestone trips

Use Cases: Gift to kids/grandkids, personal travel mementos, display items, collectors' items

Occasions: Retirement trips, anniversaries, birthdays, grandkids' milestones, bucket-list dining

PSYCHOGRAPHICS

The Cultural Connoisseur

- Sophisticated traveler, loves Michelin dining & artisan collectibles.
- Buys Michelin Air as a refined cultural artifact from world travels.

The Generous Gifter

- Emotionally generous, prioritizes family gifting and sentimental gestures.
- Buys Michelin Air to give children/grandchildren a heartfelt, story filled object and experience.

The Late-Life Adventurer

- Bucket list oriented, embraces premium experiences in retirement.
- Buys Michelin Air to commemorate major milestone trips and unforgettable meals.

Target Consumer

Young Adults Studying Abroad!

We have selcted Sophia's buyer persona to be the target consumer. This is based of off the data collected, research conducted, and a general understaning of young adults purchasing behavior.

Positioning Statement+ POD defense

To study abroad students and newlyweds, Michelin Air is the premium travel/culinary memory brand that transforms a single meal into a lifelong sensory keepsake because it pairs exclusive Michelin-partnered dining vouchers with a personalized, post trip "captured-air" memento from the exact restaurant/s you visited.

- Michelin Air's POD, bottling the essence of a Michelin-star dining experience and delivering it as a personalized keepsake. This resonates emotionally because both study abroad students and newlyweds crave meaningful, identity-shaping memories tied to their milestone trips.
- Most travel products focus on photos, merchandise, or generic souvenirs, but Michelin Air creates a unique, irreplicable emotional feel. a tangible object containing the literal air, atmosphere, and memory of the restaurant where a special moment occurred.
- This sensory-memory fusion differentiates the brand long-term, as competitors cannot authentically replicate the Michelin partnership network, the "captured-air" keepsake concept, or the integrated voucher-to-memento experience. By defining the category as premium travel/culinary memory preservation, Michelin Air enters a blue-ocean space, distinct from souvenirs, dining packages, or luxury travel services. Positioning itself as the first brand to turn a world-class meal into a lifelong artifact that travelers can keep, display, and emotionally re-experience forever.

MICHELIN AIR

Product Design + Service Design

How Does it Work?

- The service works by pairing an exclusive Michelin partnered dining voucher, used during your trip, with a post visit “captured air” container filled with the actual atmosphere from the restaurant you visited.
- The product is a sleek, artisan crafted glass capsule with a metal seal, engraved with the restaurant name, date, city, and a personalized design specific to each restaurant. It arrives in a luxury keepsake box featuring embossed gold detailing, a custom cradle that displays the container like a collectible artifact, and a discreet button for releasing the aroma of your memories.
- Designed for display on shelves, desks, or memory walls, Michelin Air is used after the trip as a symbolic reminder of the moment, and during gifting occasions for partners, parents, or friends.

Consumer Experience

- The Michelin Air experience is designed to make consumers feel emotionally immersed, nostalgic, and deeply connected to the moment they are preserving.
- Opening the box feels like unsealing a memory capsule from a milestone trip, evoking the atmosphere, romance, excitement, or pride tied to their Michelin dining experience.
- For newlyweds, it becomes a symbolic artifact of their first adventure together; for students abroad, it becomes a tangible reminder of identity-shaping exploration.
- The experience aims to feel luxurious, intimate, and story-driven, reinforcing that this is not just a souvenir, but a personal moment preserved.

Add Ons

- Subscribers can access a digital companion platform that stores photos, menus, voice notes, and trip memories tied to each restaurant collectible, creating a unified sensory archive.
- Optional curated Michelin itineraries help travelers plan their next culinary adventure using their subscription preferences. Gift-givers can choose pre-departure storytelling kits for study-abroad students or honeymooners, enriching anticipation before the trip.
- Premium subscribers receive seasonal limited-edition containers, anniversary-themed capsules, or invitations to chef-led virtual tastings.
- No training is needed to use the product, but Michelin Air provides a short guide on how to build “memory rituals”, such as opening a new container on special occasions, displaying collections elegantly, or gifting them during family milestones.

Perceptions

- Some consumers might initially confuse it with humorous “canned air” products; however, the luxury materials, Michelin partnership, artisan packaging, and emotional storytelling help firmly position it as a premium, sentimental memory artifact rather than a novelty item.
- Proper framing will ensure consumers understand Michelin Air as a luxury memory-preservation brand, distinct from humor-based canned-air products.

Example Products

LA PERGOLA: ROME

TRAVELERS STUDYING ABROAD IN ROME (OR VISITING), LOOKING TO PAIR HIGH-END CUISINE WITH ROME'S HISTORICAL AND ROMANTIC AMBIANCE.

DA VITTORIO: BRUSAPORTO

EXPLORING NORTHERN ITALY OR THE LOMBARDY REGION, ESPECIALLY IF YOU WANT TO COMBINE FINE DINING WITH REGIONAL ITALIAN CULTURE OUTSIDE THE MAJOR TOURIST CITIES.

ENOTECA PINCHIORRI : FLORENCE

TUSCAN CULINARY TRADITION WITH WORLD-CLASS WINE LIST AND LUXURIOUS DINING AMBIANCE. PERFECT IF YOU LOVE ELEGANCE, TASTE, AND HISTORY.

LA SPONDA: POSITONO

QUINTESSENTIAL POSITANO VIBE — ROMANTIC, GLOWING, LUXURIOUS

Price

BASIC TIER- $19/MONTH

- Includes:
- 1 collectible Michelin Air canister per month
- Rotating scent from a Michelin restaurant in Europe
- Basic travel story card (short description of the restaurant)

PREMIUM TIER- $39/MONTH

- Includes:
- 2 collectible Michelin Air canisters per month
- Full “Atmosphere Card” with scent notes + restaurant history
- Access to exclusive behind-the-scenes Michelin chef interviews
- Free “Travel Memory Gift Box” every 6 months
- Priority access to limited-edition restaurant scents

LUXURY TIER- $79/MONTH

- Includes:
- 4 Michelin Air canisters per month
- Limited-edition scents from 2- and 3-star restaurants
- Early access to signature scent drops
- One annual Free Michelin Meal Voucher (select partnered restaurants)
- Personalized keepsake container engraving
- VIP customer support

Brand Map

Central Brand Idea- Luxury sensory memory preservation inspired by Michelin dining.

Core Associations

1. Luxury Travel Keepsake
2. Emotional Memory Preservation
3. Authentic Michelin Partnership

- reinforce luxury and authenticity, essential to differentiate from novelty “canned air.”

Secondary Associations

4. Personalized & Customizable
5. Collectible Art Object
6. Sensory Experience
7. Storytelling & Meaning

- enrich the story, deepen meaning, and create brand personality.

Additional Associations

8. Travel Identity Expression
9. Giftable & Shareable
10. European Culinary Culture

- expand relevance to travelers, families, and gift-givers.

MICHELIN AIR

Promotional Strategy

Attention Strategy

- Cinematic visuals: warm European lighting, iconic Michelin restaurants, sensory steam effects.
- Novel concept highlighted: “Take the atmosphere home.”
- Vivid storytelling in ads (bus ad using “76% of travelers say scents are their strongest travel memory”).

Visuals & Messaging

- Luxury, nostalgic, sensory-driven imagery.
- Vocabulary: essence, preserve, memory capsule, atmosphere, intimate.
- Slogans: “The Scent of a Memory.”
- Classical conditioning (pair product with emotion) + instrumental conditioning (subscriber rewards).

First Target

- Newlyweds + honeymooners, study-abroad students, travel influencers, luxury diners.
- Emotion-focused travelers who will generate organic word-of-mouth.

Managing Misperceptions

- Must differentiate from novelty “canned air.”
- Educate on authenticity, Michelin partnership, craftsmanship, sensory purpose.
- Clear storytelling to position it as a premium memory artifact.

Regulatory Focus

- Promotion-focused audience: motivated by hope, adventure, nostalgia, meaning.

Processing Route

- Mainly central processing (emotionally invested, high motivation).
- Peripheral cues support initial attention (beautiful aesthetics, novelty).

Construal Level Fit

- High-level, abstract thinking: focused on “why preserve the memory,” not “how the product works.”
- Emotional, symbolic, future-oriented mindset.

Instagram / Facebook Ad

This social media styled ad is perfect for both Instagram and Facebook. The short forum style is to the point and eye catching for the target audience.

Maganize Ad

This Maganize ad is perfect for image heavy and short informative advertising for the traget audience.

MICHELIN AIR

THE SCENT OF A MEMORY

Opening Shot

Our-Character Introduced

The Memory Moment

Transition to the Product

Product Line Shot

Closing Scene with Sophia

TV Storyboard

1. Opening Shot: Warm golden-hour scenes of Michelin-star restaurants across Italy set the nostalgic, romantic tone.
2. Character Intro: Sophia sits at a Florence riverside table, smiling as she prepares to enjoy her meal.
3. Memory Moment: Steam rises from her pasta and transforms into dreamy visuals of Michelin dining memories.
4. Product Reveal: The steam swirls into a tiny MichelinAir house on her plate; Sophia looks amazed.
5. Product Line Shot: Four miniature restaurant souvenirs appear with scenic Italian backdrops.
6. Closing Scene: Sophia places the miniature on her nightstand; her room glows with nostalgia as the MichelinAir logo appears.

Ad using descriptive norm statistic

Using the statistic that ““76% of travelers say food scents are their strongest travel memory”. Putting the numerical Ad on the side of the bus for a quick advertisment.

MICHELIN AIR

Social Influence and Conformity:

Community Development

- Create a digital collectors' hub to display capsules and build identity.
- Offer exclusive member drops (limited editions, seasonal releases, anniversary milestones).

Social Norms/Groups to Avoid

- Driven by norms around travel prestige, emotional memory, experience sharing.
- Avoid associations with novelty "canned air," parody products, cheap souvenirs, and anti-luxury groups.

Balancing Fit/Uniqueness

- Shared series = belonging.
- Personalized engravings, restaurant-specific designs = uniqueness.
- Customizable subscriptions and personal storytelling maintain both needs.

Leveraging Social Influence

- Use descriptive norms like: "76% of travelers say scents and atmosphere are their strongest travel memory."
- Influencer storytelling (honeymooners, study-abroad students, luxury diners).
- Social proof through beautifully shared travel memory posts.

Challenges

- Niche audience, not a mass market
- Dependent on a steady partnership with Michelin to produce this product
- maintaining the air and creating a capsule to hold the scents of each restaurant would require a lot of research
- competition: fragrance brands- artificial scents are stronger
- Michelin could limit access, restricting opportunities

Thank you!!

